

The Glowing Calm in the Ocean

It was a quiet evening in the deep blue ocean. The sun had already disappeared, and only soft rays of light were dancing through the water.

Snaily rested comfortably on a soft sandy spot. Next to her, Perri drifted gently back and forth.

“Everything feels so calm today...” whispered Perri.

Blubb slowly swam over and sat beside them. Kreppie carefully walked closer and cuddled up too.

“I love this moment,” Snaily said softly. “When everything becomes quiet and we can just be together.”

Above them, tiny glowing lights began to appear - like stars in the ocean.

The friends looked up.

No one said anything. Because sometimes, the most beautiful thing... is simply being together.

Slowly, their eyes grew tired. Perri curled up, Kreppie closed her eyes quietly, and Blubb sighed contentedly.

Snaily smiled.

“Good night, my friends.”

And as the ocean became completely still, they fell asleep together.